Tonia Sutherland Bio

Tonia Sutherland is the Postdoctoral Research Associate at the Collaborative for Historical Information and Analysis at the University of Pittsburgh. Tonia earned her doctorate at Pitt’s iSchool in 2014. Global in scope and comparative in nature, Tonia’s research and teaching interests include information stewardship, policy and ethics; theories and cultures of collaboration; critical information studies; community and cultural informatics; and the digital humanities. During her tenure at CHIA, Tonia’s research will focus on collaboration culture, bridging the analog/digital divide in world historical data, and user-contributed metadata for large linked data systems.